EASTERNERS BUY MINES AROUND WHITE OAKS

Important Transaction Just Closed Will Mean Development of Famous Old District Along Modern Lines.

Carrizozo, N. M., Sept. 12.—One of the largest and most important transactions in the history of mining in this section is a deal just effected whereby Richard Wightman, an eastern capitalist and mining expert, has taken over practically all of the mining activities in the town of White Oaks and vicinity. Among those claims and operating mines included in the big purchase are the North and the South Humestake mines, the old Abe mine and adjoining claim, Lady Iva mine, C. A. Stevens claim and others. In all some half million dollars of this enterprising capital will have been expended in the near future on these rich properties.

The new owner proposes, according to this week's issue of the Outlook, to work the mines for all they are worth, making use of the very latest in machinery and thoroughly modern methods in every detail. The deal was effected by William McDonald, an official and expert agent of the mining business. That level-headed judgment has prevailed in every stage of the same is evidenced by the untold resources of these properties and the way in which they are to be developed. Mr. Wightman has just arrived from the east to take personal charge of the newly acquired holdings, and a decided impetus to mining operations in every phase will be the natural result of these recent developments.

In the district many interested parties are continually investigating the possibilities of this magic realm of gold and prospectors and purchasing agents have for months past been making this a rendezvous for careful operations.

Lincoln county's mining resources are, as a whole, as untouched as the dawn of creation behind them, and the whole region offers a standing invitation to those who have the means to unearth these hidden treasures.

TUCUMCARI WORKS UP FAIR SHOW IN AUTOS

Tucumcari, N. M., Sept. 12.—The unique plan of Tucumcari business men and county officials for assembling a proper exhibit for the state fair has proved very successful. Last week six automobiles covered the entire county, seeing practically every farmer in Quay county and exhibiting his cooperation in the county and state fair exhibit. The workers divided into two sections, three cars covering the northern half of the county and the others the southern. The work was done in two days of fast travel and hard work, but done so thoroughly that a most successful county fair is assured here for the first week in October, while a splendid state fair exhibit now is certain.

The board will hold examinations of applicants for license to practice in the state and will hear complaints of violations and attend to other business of the board. W. G. UNIVERSITY WILL OPEN LIBRARY TO PEOPLE

Important Reference Collections Will Be Made Available for People of Whole State Through the Mail.

To the end of extending the usefulness of the State University of New Mexico more fully to the people of the whole state President David H. Boyd has announced that in future the large reference libraries of the institution, carefully arranged and cataloged, and the accumulation of years, will be open for use by persons in any section of New Mexico who may be interested in pursuing special lines of investigation; in preparation of papers, debates or in connection with club studies.

During the past year and with the rapid increase in number of women's clubs, social study clubs and similar organizations many requests have come to the university for information on various subjects. This has encouraged President Boyd in his belief that by opening the reference libraries to general use they may be made to serve a very comprehensive purpose and to be of great usefulness. The libraries include an especially complete collection of federal statistical publications, comprehensive collections on many scientific subjects, history, art, travel, literature, social science, economics, public business, etc.

The only cost involved in using the university libraries will be an understanding that books and pamphlets loaned will be returned postpaid and with the outgoing postage charge enclosed. An envelope for the outgoing postage will be enclosed and a special library assistant will be detailed to attend to this department of the library work. The assistant will give prompt information, if material sought is not available, as to where it may be obtained most easily. While it is expected that the opening of the libraries in this way will be of great usefulness in connection with study clubs, etc., any responsible individual will be welcome to take advantage of the facilities afforded. The plan is one of several now under consideration by which the usefulness of the university will be materially extended.

JUDGE RICHARDSON LIKES WORK OF STATE FAIR

If It Overcomes Provincialism in New Mexico, Says Veteran Empire Builder, It's Value Is Past Telling.

(Special Correspondence.)
Carlsbad, N. M., Sept. 10.—On the day Judge G. A. Richardson set foot in New Mexico a generation ago he entered heartily into the scheme of building a great state. From that day to this he has consistently given time and money freely to promote the growth of the entire state. Judge Richardson is holding the September term of court for Eddy county at present and today discussed interestingly New Mexico conditions.

"We are to a certain extent provincial in this state," he said. "The history of the colonization of New Mexico explains this. The Spaniards coming from Mexico took possession of the fertile Rio Grande valley hundreds of years ago and planted there a Latin civilization. It is only within recent years that the Americans have taken possession of the Pecos valley and the east side. Both communities went their way without entering into business relations even. But there is a wonderful change in this respect in sight."

"The day of every community being sufficient to itself is about over. If the state fair commission can accomplish no other work than to wipe out the barriers between communities in New Mexico it will be worth much to the state and its value will be beyond the cost of this fair and all other state fairs as they grow and enlarge from year to year. Until the New Mexico people discard the spirit of locality there will be little permanent growth in New Mexico. I honor the patriotic feeling of everyone towards the community in which he lives; yet what we need most now is a broadening of our view and being at home more in New Mexico. We need more of the feeling that New Mexico is home."

"Our people and about in other states and spend their money lavishly upon playgrounds rather than make the playgrounds at home and there are many most attractive playgrounds. A million dollars will be spent by New Mexicans going to and upon the playgrounds of California this year. New Mexico is full of more attractive spots, more interesting historical incidents and scenes than can be found upon the Pacific coast. Yet our people are going to and coming from that country without knowing or dreaming of caring, apparently, for what we possess at home."

"A million dollars to California, another million in automobiles, and seven hundred thousand to educate from all parts of Curry and Roosevelt counties.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. McNary of El Paso are traveling through New Mexico this week as the beginning of a 2,000 automobile trip which will take them to the Pacific coast. Mr. McNary is vice president of the First National bank of El Paso.

It is announced that the Clovis Elks lodge has completed plans for construction of a large auditorium 100 feet square.

In order to permit necessary work on the scenic highway near Raton the county commissioners of Colfax county have loaned $3,000 to the county road board, pending receipt of the state highway bond money available for that county.

Early reports from hunters and trappers report an unusually large number of bears in the Black Range of Socorro and Sierra counties this year.

The Dona Ana county grand jury is said to be investigating charges of anti-sampling law violations in Las Cruces.

The Socorro Power and Lumber company has completed a six mile burn from its timber lands into the Mogollon mining camp and is delivering lumber to all of the Mogollon mining companies.

An addition 50 by 33 feet is being built to the hospital of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company at Gardner.

A new 100-barrel flour mill is now rapidly nearing completion at Mills, Mora county, a point on the Southwestern railroad's Dawson line. The same company is building elevators at Abbott, Mosquero and Solano.

A new elevator is under construction at Dedman, Union county one of a dozen new plate established to take care of the great grain crop in northern New Mexico this year.

SPRINGER FIRM BUYS CARLOAD OF TRACTORS

Springer, N. M., Sept. 12.—That northern New Mexico farmers propose to keep right up with the march of farm progress and that they have the money to do it, is indicated by the shipping to this point this week of a carload of gas tractors by a local firm. This is the first carload lot of tractors to be brought here, although many of the energy savers are in use in this and in Union counties. Practically all of this consignment has been sold to large farming interests near Springer.

"But better still would be to get behind that ten million acre land grant for roads, drainage and education. This would help every part of the state and encourage development of agriculture, stock industry and every other resource of this great state. It is a good time for the people to meet at the state fair next month and take some decisive action."

A. M. HOVE.

Hon. R. C. Ely of Deming, accompanied by a number of Los Angeles men, was in the city for a short time this morning on his way to Santa Fe with the party. The visitors are interested in New Mexico land.
